

ALL ABOUT SENIORS

Fresh produce for Nassau County senior citizens

Nassau County seniors can enjoy fresh fruit and vegetables at local farmers markets.

Nassau County Executive Laura

Curran recently announced a program in which income-eligible residents, age 60 and over, can receive a one-time (per person, per year) coupon book to purchase fresh fruits and vegetables at local farmers markets and farm stands. The coupons, which are provided by the New York State Farmers' throughout Nassau County.

The farmers' markets and farm stands in Nassau include: The Garden at St. Francis Farm Stand, North Bellmore; East Meadow

Farm Stand; Farmingdale Country Farm Stand; Farmingdale Country Fresh Farmers Market; Freeport Farmers' Market; Freeport Woodcleft Avenue Farmers Market; Garden City Farmers Market;

Market; Long Beach; Port Washington Organic Farmers Market; Rockville Centre Farmers Market; Roosevelt Community Farm Stand; Roslyn-North Hills Farmers Market; Seaford Farmers Market;

Gurwin Center graduates congratulated by Town Supervisor

Town of Huntington Supervisor Chad A. Lupinacci met with the Gurwin Jewish Nursing and Rehabilitation Center Adult Education graduates, at the Gurwin Center Simon Rainbow Room in Commack, to honor their achievements.

"All of you graduating tonight have made your family members, friends and your Gurwin family proud, and you serve as a shining example to those who follow in your footsteps," said Supervisor Lupinacci. "I offer special congratulations to the hard work and efforts of Valedictorian Nancy Dorn and Salutatorian Faith Goodman." The Adult Education Curriculum consists of units ranging from "Op-

Supervisor Chad A. Lupinacci at the Gurwin

Rehabilitation Center. The program's goal is to provide a comprehensive rehabilitation program for seniors.

Around Long Island

Stony Brook: Free Admission for Seniors. The Long Island Museum (LIM) is offering free access for and New York State residents. For information, call 516-333-3333 or visit www.lim.org.

cal Life and Learning Center. The program is open from 10 a.m.-no